It began with a phone call from a mysterious man who appeared to be the main game master of the strange game. The Stranger Woman had no idea what the game was about. She didn't care. She was just happy to have this man pick up the phone to say that he had received her call and he would be calling her back. She had to go out of the city for a little while, but she would contact him upon her return. When the Stranger Woman returned to her office she was shocked to see that someone else had come to her office looking for the mysterious woman. The man had a strange name that she had never heard of, but he was also looking for her. The Stranger Woman was at a loss to know what to do. She had no idea how to handle this situation. The man was a local police officer and had a photo of the Stranger Woman. He had stopped at her office to ask questions about this woman who apparently was helping people escape the strange Lands of 1 and 2 in the dark continent. The Stranger Woman tried to explain to him that she didn't know anything about the game. And that the man should contact him if he wanted more information on the game. The Stranger Woman had a funny feeling that this was a setup and that the man was going to arrest her. The Stranger Woman knew that she should go home and change. She decided that she should get some new clothes that would better fit her mysterious role. She slipped on some sneakers and headed toward the train station. As she left her office and entered the lobby of her building she noticed a man staring at her. The Stranger Woman was petrified!
